

Wouldn't It Be Nice If....

- The World Championship went down to the wire occasionally?
- The best riders in the league appeared in the league riders championship?
- We knew the fixtures more than a fortnight before the season started?
- Track protection was in place so that meetings would not be called off due to inclement weather hours before the meeting is scheduled to start?
- New promoters weren't always disillusioned and skint by the end of their first season?
- The sport didn't have to artificially inflate scores to make meetings appear competitive?
- Riders didn't ride for one team one week and against them the next?
- Teams weren't subject to dramatic change from one season to the next?
- Bog standard domestic meetings didn't rely on competitors flying in from all around Europe?
- The rules on awarding races were so simple that even team managers would know them?
- Admission prices were such that middle-to-low income families could afford to attend on a regular basis?
- The mainstream press covered the sport?

We always welcome and value any feedback from our visitors. If you'd like to comment on this article then please fill in our feedback form at

<http://www.speedwayplus.com/WouldntItBeNice.shtml#feedback>